

Unbreakable Heart

JJ Heller

If you don't want your heart to be broken
Don't give it to anyone
Keep it inside
Find a good place to hide
You'll be safe from the dangers of love

Lock all the doors and the windows
So no one can find a way in
Pretend you're not there
Pretend you don't care
And they'll never hurt you again

The longer you live in the shadows
The more you can feel like a ghost
But maybe the thing you're afraid of is what you need the most

Come on outside where you belong
I know you're scared, but you are strong
You're made for love
Not for the dark
Nobody wants an unbreakable heart

A heart without love is a desert
An island where nothing will grow
Set it down on the shelf
And there by itself
It will slowly turn into a stone

The longer you live in the shadows
The more you can feel like a ghost
But maybe the thing you're afraid of is what you need the most

Come on outside where you belong
I know you're scared, but you are strong
You're made for love
Not for the dark
Nobody wants an unbreakable heart

So open up all of the shutters
Feel the warmth of the sun
Put your armor away
Tear down your barricades
And trade in your safety for love

Come on outside where you belong
I know you're scared, but you are strong
You're made for love
Not for the dark
Nobody wants an unbreakable heart
