

Find Your Way Home

Joakim Lundell

Red eyes, now they color you lonely
Take off to nowhere, some place to rest where
Light air, warm rain, cover your cold knees
And you can reset your mind

You say you're weak and that's your sorrow
You're not a freak, no, just keep holding on

When you find your way home, I'm waiting for you
No more scars will ever come through
You will be a better me, I promise, just wait
Oh, just wait, I'll see you one day
I know that you're tired of all these lies
You will be okay when you're older
When you find your way home, I'm waiting for you
Waiting for you

Washed up, pale face, broken and lonely
You wanna show them, you'll get your moment
Somehow, somewhere, you'll get there slowly
You had to leave them right now

You say you're weak and that's your sorrow
You're not a freak, no, just keep holding on

When you find your way home, I'm waiting for you
No more scars will ever come through
You will be a better me, I promise, just wait
Oh, just wait, I'll see you one day
I know that you're tired of all these lies
You will be okay when you're older
When you find your way home, I'm waiting for you
Waiting for you

Wipe those big eyes, broken and lonely
You'll be alright

When you find your way home, I'm waiting for you
No more scars will ever come through
You will be a better me, I promise, just wait
Oh, just wait, I'll see you one day
I know that you're tired of all these lies
You will be okay when you're older
When you find your way home, I'm waiting for you
Waiting for you
