

Travel So Far

Joan Armatrading

Travel so far, I've got to get myself back
Move so far from you and you so true
Well let me get myself back
Never going to wander again
Travel so far, well let me get myself back

Was seeing the old moon walking past my door
He had freedom eyes, his home was the skies
And he beckoned me to his side
He said come let's, let's go, freedom road, just you and me
Bring the sun if you feel you need some warm company

Travel so far, well let me get myself back
Move so close to you and you're still true
It's good to have you smile back
Get back, get back, get back, I'll let you lead the way
Never going to wander again

Don't say you've stopped loving me
'Cos there by your side, should be no one but me
Don't say you've stopped loving me
'Cos there by your side, I've traveled so far to be
Get back, get back, get back

Was feeling how your body moved
Watching the leaves blow in the trees
Then I thought of your touch
And that reminds me of your kiss
And I almost drove myself insane

Don't say you've stopped loving me
Thinkin' up as I go how you're gonna
Outshine the sun and moon
Don't say you've stopped loving me
'Cos there by your side, should be no one but me
Should be no one but me, should be no one but me
Should be no one but me
