

Soulmates to Strangers

Joan Jett and the Blackhearts

I thought that we were special
That you are the one for me
We don't know why we're together
And I started to believe
Our love was invincible
And then the cracks started to unglue like me and you

We were fated to be together
We were fated to be apart
We were soulmates and then we were strangers

The mood had started changing
And I knew I had to leave
There's no point in blaming
When we were both so naive
Do you think you ever loved me?
Do you think of me? Do you think I think of you?

We were fated to be together
We were fated to be apart
We were soulmates and then we were strangers
We were soulmates that turned into strangers

Hey!

Now!
I thought you were my best friend
And I know you felt it too
But then we hit a dead end
It was like someone I never knew
I know that we were intimate
But that's the part I don't recall at all

We were fated to be together
We were fated to be apart
We were soulmates and then we are strangers
We were soulmates that turned into strangers
We were soulmates and now we are strangers
