

Angel Face

Joan Osborne

I was struck down by your angel face

I had a father
I had a brother
I had a husband and I had a lover
I had a son he filled me with wonder

But I was struck down by your angel face

I was a woman
I was a mother
Woke in a fever from what I've been under You made my heart beat like God made the thunder

I was struck down by your angel face

Oh, did I tell you?
Did I bother to mention you're keeping me worried building up tension
Spinning out of control
Don't trust my intention since

I was struck down by your angel face