

Bound To You

Jocelyn Alice

Last time you came around, my hair was chocolate brown
Guess it's been that long
Tried moving on, never make it past the front lawn
Guess I'm not that strong

I should have fallen out of love with you by now
But I've got part, I've got a piece
I've got a heart permanently bound to you
Should have forgotten what I felt for you by now
But I got a part, part of me that's permanently bound to you

I could have walked away
Strong, independently, but I'm in too deep
You, my only vice, but left to my own devices
Guess I'm just too weak

I should have fallen out of love with you by now
But I've got part, I've got a piece
I've got a heart permanently bound to you
Should have forgotten what I felt for you by now
But I got a part, part of me that's permanently bound to you
But I've got part, I've got a piece
I've got a heart permanently bound to you

I should have fallen out of love with you by now
But my heart is bound, bound

I should have fallen out of love with you by now
But I've got part, I've got a piece
I've got a heart permanently bound to you
Should have forgotten what I felt for you by now
But I got a part, part of me that's permanently bound to you
Permanently bound, permanently bound to you
I should have fallen, I should have fallen
I should have fallen out of love with you
But I got part, I got a piece
I got a heart permanently bound to you
Should have forgotten what I felt for you by now
I've got a part, I've got a piece that's permanently bound to you
