

Astronaut

Joe Brooks

Hey, don't cry for me
Don't be afraid, I'll be okay
Soon, I'll be walking on air
Without a care, I'm leaving today

So don't try to keep me
By holding me down
Don't try to tell me
I'm meant for the ground
I am an astronaut sailing the stars
The moon is where I left my heart

I've tried to follow the crowd
Got trapped in a cage I had to escape
'Cause this world was never for me
I was born to fly free
There's no other way

So don't try to keep me
By holding me down
Don't try to tell me
I'm meant for the ground
I am an astronaut sailing the stars
The moon is where I left my heart

I hold the earth in my hands
All that I am, what is given me
And although I'm shaking
I trust in the hope
That someday you'll find me
In your telescope

I am an astronaut sailing the stars
The moon is where I left my heart
Tonight is where everything starts
