Good Fortune

I will come back for my things Then I'll go the way I came Back down your crooked steps, two at a time And to the morning sun I will call as I run As if it waited for me now to shine

This is my good fortune now at last This is all I never knew to ask of you To leave me with no love I might return.

I know where I could go And work awhile, you never know The change might be enough to set me free

I could leave tonight And discover I was right But now freer than I ever chose to be

This is my good fortune now at last This is all I never knew to ask of you To leave me with no love I might return.

I climb right in beside The first offer of a ride That's warmer than all that I leave behind I shake my collar free And hold myself against my knee And pray tonight's the peaceful, dreamless kid.

This is my good fortune now at last This is all I never knew to ask of you To leave me with no love I might return.

Joe Henry