

Cold There

Joe Jordan

Ask me anything, I don't mind
Books are meant for prying
Don't mind the weathered binding
I've been subject to this before

You say "don't lie", I swear I won't
But The deeper that you get
The darker this thing goes
Just knock before you open certain doors

Cause it gets cold there
Where the truth gets told
And I'm not sure that
You brought a warm enough coat
And your so damn sweet and kind
With a warmth inside your eyes
I'm scared the frost is bound to turn you cold
And you can't say your heart won't fold
Hearts don't do what they're told
You sure you wanna go there
Sure gets cold there
Sure gets cold there

We talk all night, 2 bottles of wine
You gave me all your broken pieces
They connected right to mine
We're not sure if that's a good or a bad sign

Do I love Jesus? you shoot me straight
You ask, do I wanna be a father
And settle down someday
I promised you the truth I hope you'll stay

Cause it gets cold there
Where the truth gets told
And I'm not sure that
You brought a warm enough coat
And your so damn sweet and kind
With a warmth inside your eyes
I'm scared the frost is bound to turn you cold
You can't say your heart won't fold
Hearts don't do what they're told
You sure you wanna go there
Sure gets cold there
Sure gets cold there

Can we just lay here by the fire glow?
Save all your questions for tomorrow
Baby, I know the more the you know
The less your love for me will grow
I don't want the truth to set me free
If it means lettin' you go

Cause it gets cold there
Where the truth gets told
And I'm not sure that
You brought a warm enough coat

And your so damn sweet and kind
With a warmth inside your eyes
I'm scared the frost is bound to turn you cold
You can't say your heart won't fold
Hearts don't do what they're told
You sure you wanna go there
Might end up alone there
It sure gets cold there
Sure gets cold there
Sure gets cold there
