

Porneaux

Johan

Said goodbye this morning when the dawn began to crack You whispered you were sorry then you stabbed me in the back

I'm breathing in, I'm breathing out, I'm waking up But you're already gone, something is gone wrong

I hate the feel you left behind, a ghost inside my head I hate the tears I cried for you cause I just can't forget

It's over now, feel older now
My head is where my feet should be, on the ground
And I'm still around

You think I'm blind that I don't mind, you try to fool
me once again

And with that knife, you took my life, I've come to take it back again

You should have known you never get away so easily You should have known it takes a lot more to get rid of me

I'm so amused, you're so confused
I'm in your thoughts, I'm in your heart, in your soul
Left her in the cold

You think I'm blind that I don't mind, you try to fool
me once again

And with that knife, you took my life, I've come to
take it back again

I've been your man, it's against you It's just I want you to be true

Someday we will gather and I will find you and you will find me too

And then we walk across the line
Someday, we're together and I will find you

You and me, we were the same person
So you and me, we can never part