

Lonely Is Another State

John Anderson

There's nothin' I feel stronger than the need to travel on Never knowin' where I'm goin' or how long I'll be gone There's no need makin' promises 'cause promises are something I can't keep

These highways are old memories I've traveled many times
And there's no destination on the road map in my mind
And somethin's always callin' me to a place I hope I'll find

And this old road gets kinda lonesome
And sometimes I get lonesome too
But I know it won't last forever
Lonely is another state and I'm just passing through

Back when I was younger, I tried to settle down
I had a good job in a factory and a house outside of town
But I felt the need to be somewhere I'd never been before

And if I don't see tomorrow, I'm thankful for today
And all the things I've ever seen while travelin' on my way Every change of time and scenery and the friends I've met along the way

And this old road gets kinda lonesome
And sometimes I get lonesome too
But I know it won't last forever
'Cause lonely is another state and I'm just passing through
