

When Something Is Wrong With My Baby

John Farnham

The ice is melting in my glass there's a storm out on the ocean
A picture in a golden frame lying cracked and broken
If you lined up all the losers and stood them in my shoes
They'd put me on a pedestal and crown me prince of fools

Cos even though you did me wrong
My heart denies the fact
If you gave me half a chance
You know I'd take you back

If there's a fool born every minute
Then I'm the man of the hour
Seems I've been living a lie for so long now
If there's a spotlight and I'm in it
Cos I haven't got the power
To know when love is over
I'm the man of the hour

There's a time for giving up on love, and a time to stay and fight
I would give anything to be with you tonight
God I mustbe twisted, cos I know you're just no good
If you asked me to blind my eyes, then girl you know I would

If there's a fool born every minute
Then I'm the man of the hour
Seems I've been living a lie for so long now
If there's a spotlight and I'm in it
Cos I haven't got the power
To know when love is over
I'm the man of the hour

Pull this dagger from my heart, let it beat again
In my world of self delusion, only you can stop the pain

Even though you did me wrong, my heart denies the fact
If you gave me one more chance, you know I'd take you back

If there's a fool born every minute
Then I'm the man of the hour
Seems I've been living a lie for so long now
If there's a spotlight and I'm in it
Cos I haven't got the power
To know when love is over
I'm the man of the hour

If there's a fool born every minute

If there's a spotlight and I'm in it

If there's a fool born every minute

If there's a spotlight and I'm in it

If there's a fool born every minute

If there's a spotlight and I'm in it
