

Anyone Else

John Mark McMillan

Who fills the cosmos with joy?
Speaks my name into the void?
When my days are destroyed
There's only You, only You

I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
But You

Who fills the cosmos with light?
Says my name into the night?
Sets the sun into flight?
It's only You

I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
But You

And I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
But You

And all the years will find us
In the harbor of Your kindness
All the ties that bind us
In the house of your affections

And all the years will find us
In the harbor of your kindness
And all the years will find us here
In the house of Your love

And I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
But You

And all the years will find us
In the harbor of Your kindness
All the ties that bind us
In the house of your affections

And all the years will find us
In the harbor of your kindness
And all the years will find us here
In the house of Your love

And I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
I don't want anyone else
But You, but You
