

Easy Burden

John Mark McMillan

Come all you hungry
Let the thirsty come and fill their cup
And find yourself in Him
For His burden is an easy one

Come all you bitter
Let the angry lay down their guns
And find yourself again
For His burden is an easy one

His burden is light, His burden is love
Though we walk through the night
The morning comes
His burden is light, His burden is love
And He will give you rest
For His burden is, His burden is
An easy one

Come all you tired
Let your bodies be lifted up
And be transformed my friend
For His burden is an easy one

His burden is light, His burden is love
Though we walk through the night
The morning comes
His burden is light, His burden is love
And He will give you rest, He will give you rest
For His burden is, His burden is
An easy one

I will take up my cross and I'll follow You
Nothing is lost, there is nothing to lose

I will take up my cross and I'll follow You
Nothing is lost, there is nothing to lose

His burden is light, His burden is love
Though we walk through the night
The morning comes
His burden is light, His burden is love
And He will give you rest, He will give you rest
He will give you rest
For His burden is, His burden is
An easy one
