

Television Eye

John Mayall

Television eye hypnotizing me in my bed
I've got no time to sleep, my eyes are getting blood-shot red
You've got me in your power, staring at your many channeled head

Television eye before you got me hooked I used to read
Now you're by my bedside shining empty lights on me
'Round the clock commercials, trying to sell me things I'll never need

It's hard to turn you off, even though you never turn me on You're trying to slow my thinking, feeling like my mind is nearly gone
Television eye, had me in your power too long