

Devil In The Mirror

John Schneider

I woke up this morning to two blue bloodshot eyes
The reflections of a man who fell from paradise
You know, hell ain't just a place you go, it's a state of mind
The devil's in the man, not the women and the wine
I can see him in the mirror
And he looks a lot like me
I can hear him whisper, "Son, I got just what you need."
With my twenty-twenty hindsight
It couldn't be no clearer
The biggest fight in this whole life is the Devil in the Mirror
It takes a lot of falling for a man to get this low
And I can't help but wonder if there's a bottom to this hole
I was born innocent, pure as the morning dew
But I've heard it said the devil was once an angel too
Yeah I can see him in the mirror

And he looks a lot like me
I can hear him whisper, "Son, I got just what you need."
With my twenty-twenty hindsight
It couldn't be no clearer
The biggest fight in this whole life is with the Devil in the M irror
Lord knows I can't outrun him
And I can't keep up this pace
I think it's time I met him face to face
[Chorus}
Yeah I can see him in the mirror
And he looks a lot like me
I can hear him whisper, "Son, I got just what you need."
With my twenty-twenty hindsight
I couldn't be no clearer
The biggest fight in this whole life is with the Devil in the M irror
Yeah
Son
I got just what you need, yeah
Devil in the Mirror
I'm the Devil in the Mirror
