

Hurts Like the Devil

John Schneider

Loving her was something, close to paradise.
Maybe 'bout as close, as I will ever be.
Yes I held a little hammer in my, hands.
And I guess that should be enough, for any man.

But it hurts, like the devil 'cause she's, somebody's angel.
While I'm holding on to the times I held her tight.
And it hurts, like the devil 'cause she's, somebody's angel.
She's somebody's angel, tonight.

Funny how the love she made so easy then,
only makes it harder to forget her now.
'Cause I know the feeling I once, left behind.
It was right there in my arms,
'til I left her love behind.

Now it hurts, like the devil 'cause she's, somebody's angel.
While I'm holding on to the times I held her tight.
And it hurts, like the devil 'cause she's, somebody's angel.
She's somebody's angel, tonight.

Now he's found the feeling I once left behind.
She's right there in his arms,
but she's still here in my mind.

And it hurts, like the devil 'cause she's, somebody's angel.
While I'm holding on to the times I held her tight.
And it hurts, like the devil 'cause she's, somebody's angel.
She's somebody's angel, tonight.

Yes, She's somebody's angel, tonight.
