

Fahrenheit

John Splithoff

I can't stand the way I feel before 6pm
But my problems slip away when sipping on the tonic and gin
Tonight I'm diving in, no matter how far I fall
Just me, myself and I and anybody else I call

So I pour up
Then I slow down
You know I love to hear the music when it's too loud
I shut my mind off
My heads a ghost town
Then I pour another, then I pour another like
Oooh my Fahrenheit is burning through the roof right now
And I'm feeling featherlight again
I wanna live like every night
I'll see all of my friends somehow
Cause I'm sipping on what I like again
You know I'm sipping on what I like again

I just love the way
I'm living an elusive dream
By the time I'm out the door
I won't remember anything
I'll meet someone at the bar
(She's into me)
Touching backseat of the car
(She's feeling me)
And now I'm wrapped up in her arms
(She's healing me)
But I'll stumble home alone before the night ends

So I pour up
Then I slow down
You know I love to hear the music when it's too loud
I shut my mind off
My heads a ghost town
Then I pour another, then I pour another like
Oooh my Fahrenheit is burning through the roof right now
And I'm feeling featherlight again
I wanna live like every night
I'll see all of my friends somehow
Cause I'm sipping on what I like again
You know I'm sipping on what I like again

Where does the time go when living like this?
Waking up lost in the haze?
But it feels like summer when it hits my lips
And there's not a thing I would change
And it's got me like

Oooh my Fahrenheit
My Fahrenheit
My Fahrenheit
Oooh my Fahrenheit
My Fahrenheit
My Fahrenheit
