

It's Raining Again

John Williamson

I can't believe it's raining again today
With a rug to the house already washed away
Why did we pray so hard for the change?
Even granddad says the weather's strange
I can't believe we're stuck out here again
We know it's gonna stop but who knows when
The sheep is stuck in mud, looks like another flood
They can't believe there's rain again today

Why are the angels coming down on me
We've already lost it all, cut the AC
Are they telling us the only way they can
That the earth will fight against the greed of man
There's another rock slide on the road
The land is soaked and drowning all we sow
It's not the greedy ones that have to pay
We can't believe there's rain again today

Why are the angels coming down on me
We've already lost it all, can't they see?
Are they telling us the only way they can
That the earth will fight against the greed of man
It's not the greedy ones that have to pay
We can't believe there's rain again today
We can't believe there's rain again today
