

What Really Matters

Joi Cardwell

For sometime I lived in a place
That made me feel I was all alone
Then with your help I came to realize
That in life I am truly loved

Nothing really matters
Except the love of others
The world is such a hard place
Peace in your heart is hard to hold
Nothing really matters
Except the love of yourself
Time we spend together
Means much more than jewels or gold

Just know you're never alone
And keep the faith and be strong
And what is promised to you will come true
Just look and around and believe
That in our hearts we are free
Without a doubt
You'll find it's what you need

Cause what really matters
Is the love of others
The time we spend
Means much more than jewels or gold
Nothing really matters
Except the love of yourself
Time we spend together means much more than
Jewels or gold

In my life I've learned to know the difference
Of the things for me that are
Right or wrong
In my heart I've learned to keep a distance
From the things or people who do me harm
Nothing really matters
Except the love of others
The time we spend together means
Much more than jewels or gold
Nothing really matters
Except the love of yourself
The world is such a hard place peace in your heart is hard to hold.

Love- Love
What really matters is love
Love- what really matters
Is love.
