Of all the new, new numbers Shouted out beside the mountain Glowing in the night I couldn't see so clear I'd run the risk of hoping Everything was all right Then it hits you Flashing faster than Even words are no longer valid Or reasonable in this life The choice is mesmerising, Contemplating, Castaneding every fear But if the fear subsides I take a chance and leap into the inconceivable Wake me quickly Wake me stealthily Wake me quickly Wake me up into the real world again See me fly to escape this earthly conversation True to form again To extend the quietest regions As we venture to forbidden regions As before the sun That dominates my movements higher We expect it all to justify Of all the new, new numbers Shouted out beside the river Flowing in the night Make no mistake in taking chances As you leap into the world of now Safe religion at last declining you All is One Redefining your every move again Building a bridge through where The ship of Life pulls in Building a bridge to set you free We will walk this true believer Here to honor life Be the strength of love And all you're meant to be We all agreed to meet This long hot summer, long ago At last this song could be replayed They say through fascination All in all this invitation For if we die tomorrow Never knowing the truth There'd be no real reason To life without hope Without feeling this Precious true gift To be able to see Then finally come home