

Larger Than Life

Jon Foreman

I hear you on the phone line
Your voice sounds like a dead eye
Your words sound like the end times
This time sounds like you mean it
You say just gonna get by
Get through, get mine, and get high
You say you're just gonna survive
But you know it's just a lie

Do you feel the weight again?
Are you feeling like you're caving in?
You're larger than life, my friend.
You're bigger than what you've been
Are you running away again?
Are you feeling blown by the wind?
You're larger than life
You're larger than life

Please don't pretend to apologize
Please don't pretend to be tongue-tied
Please stop, please stop your white lies
We both know neither of us need 'em
Rise up, rise like the blue skies
Rise up, lift up your blue eyes
Rise up, rise like the sunrise
We all wanna see you shine

Do you feel the weight again?
Are you feeling like you're caving in?
You're larger than life, my friend.
You're bigger than what you've been
Are you running away again?
Are you feeling blown by the wind?
You're larger than life
You're larger than life
You're larger than life
Ooh ooh ooh

Do you feel the weight again?
Are you feeling like you're caving in?
You're larger than life, my friend.
You're bigger than what you've been
Are you running away again?
Are you feeling blown by the wind?
You're larger than life
You're larger than life
