

I Don't Drink Anymore

Jon Wolfe

It sure is good to see you here after all this time
Well thanks for askin' I'm doin' fine
I know what it must look like me stumblin' from the bar
Cause when you left I guess I hit it pretty hard

But I don't drink anymore, any more than I used to
That ol' whiskey don't pour anymore and I don't miss you
I might slip once or twice, maybe have a few on ice
Probably shouldn't but now and then I do
I don't drink anymore, any more than I used to

I could ask ya for a dance, we could have another round
Play for the good times till they shut it down
We could pick up where we left off
Maybe light up that old flame
While I sit tell you just how much I've changed

But I don't drink anymore, any more than I used to
And that ol' whiskey don't pour anymore and I don't miss you
I might slip once or twice, maybe have a few on ice
Probably shouldn't but now and then I do
I don't drink anymore, any more than I used to
And I don't need you anymore, any more than I used to
