

Wrong Again

Jonas Brothers

Wrong Again

Father I hate to tell you this
You taught me how to hit the mark
And once again I missed.
Touch the fire
You always said that I get burned
Why is it so hard to remember?
All the lessons I have learned.

How could you look at me that way?
When I have failed so many times
Showing me love you tell the world
This child is mine
How could you walk that extra mile?
I see forgiveness in your smile
So should you reject me?
Wrong again

Once again
Lord I have wondered from a path
Thought I knew a better way
From a shorter word you've asked
Standing here
I don't deserve a second chance
And I can't conceal the shame of you
Then more I can stand

When I look into your face
And see the power of your grace
I find it so hard to believe
Forgiveness that you're showing me
I see the answer in your eyes
Love and mercy I realized
Finally the truth has set me free

I thought you was going
Instead you're just holy
Thought you would judge
Instead you just love me
So should you reject me?
Wrong again