Where Were You

Jonatha Brooke

You know the tricks of the trade, you can hit the soft spots at the center

You dish it out and take it back riding on the wave of your pom pous ways

Oh, but sooner or later you'll have to wring your lovely hands in dismay

You'll go back to the boardroom, add the numbers up and turn the page at the end of the day.

Where were you at the bleakest of moments?
Where were you at the hint of success?
When through the window of opportunity came the Glimmer of a day in the sun
Glimmer of a day in the sun

You took the canvas of a life, torn with the wind and the loss Could still pull you along

Pocketing images one by one of the past toward your future A penny for your song

Position memories carefully, you dust them off at holidays Then you'll go back to the boardroom, declare your passion for the new day

Where were you at the bleakest of moments?
Where were you at the hint of success?
When through the window of opportunity came the Glimmer of a day in the sun
Glimmer of a day in the sun

I don't think that it's me you've got in mind Looks like the blind still bluffing the blind Lead me on and lay me down 'Cause where were you?

Where were you at the bleakest of moments?
Where were you at the hint of success?
When through the window of opportunity came the Glimmer of a day in the sun
Glimmer of a day in the sun
