Well I wish there was someone Well I wish there was someone To love me

When I used to be someone  $\label{eq:constraints} \text{And I knew there was someone} \\ \text{That loved me}$

As I sit here frozen alone Even ghosts get tired and go home As they crawl back under the stars

And I wish there was something Please tell me there's something better And I wish there was something more than this Saturated loneliness

And I wish I could feel it
And I wish I could steal it
Abduct it, corrupt it, but I never can
It's just saturated loneliness

Does the silence get lonely?
Does the silence get lonely?
Who knows?
I've been hearing it tell me
I've been hearing it tell me
Go home

Cause the freaks are playing tonight They packed up and turned out the lights

And I wish there was something Please tell me theres something better And I wish there was something more than this Saturated loneliness

And I wish I could feel it
And I wish I could steal it
Abduct it, corrupt it, but I never can
It's just saturated loneliness

And the bath waters cold And this lifes getting old

And I wish I could feel it
And I wish I could feel it
And I wish I could steal it
Abduct it, corrupt it
And I wish I could feel it
And I wish I could feel it
And I wish I could steal it
And I wish I could feel it
Abduct it, corrupt it
But I never can
I never can
Never Can
