

Walk On By

Jonathan Davis

All the things that I do
All the hell I've been through
It somehow doesn't matter
I see the light in the booth
Wishing I came right through
Right through, right through
Right through

I'm walking on the dark side, I can't get away
I'm flirting with disaster, it's the price I pay
Feelings of hopelessness engulf me every day
Yet I walk on by, walk on by

All I do to get through
All this pain is subdued
It always comes back smarter
I see the dark in it too
Freaking out, I can't move
Can't move, can't move
Can't move

I'm walking on the dark side, I can't get away
I'm flirting with disaster, it's the price I pay
Feelings of hopelessness engulf me every day
Yet I walk on by, walk on by
Yet I walk on by, walk on by
Yet I walk on by, walk on by

And they're searching for me
Trying to steal and dissect my time
Always they're banging and constantly screaming inside
And they're ripping at me
And they're taking my happiness, making it worthless
And they're leaving me here to die

I feel them laughing at me
I feel them stabbing at me
I feel the pressure inside
Building till I try to break free
I can't believe what I've done
I should have never begun
I feel the pressure inside
Telling me that I cross your mind

I feel them laughing at me
I feel them stabbing at me
I feel them laughing at me
I feel them stabbing at me

I'm walking on the dark side, I can't get away
I'm flirting with disaster, it's the price I pay
Feelings of hopelessness engulf me every day
Yet I walk on by, walk on by
Yet I walk on by, walk on by
Yet I walk on by, walk on by
