Finding My Way

Jonathan Thulin

I used to say that I loved you,
But now I feel miles from you.
I never felt like a stranger,
But now it feels like I've lost you.
Where are you?

I used to follow what you'd say,
But now it feels like I've lost my way.
I have to look to tomorrow,
Don't want to live in the shadow,
Of what used to be,
I'm just beginning...

I'm finding my way back to you,
I'm taking in all that you do,
I love you because I want to,
It's a willing road back to you.
You made every inch of me new,
I'm breathing the air that you do,
Oh I'm finding my way to you.

I want to know what it feels like,
To live my life with no regrets.
But I would cease to be human,
What broken heart would you fix then?
So I'm letting go of all that I've known...

I'm finding my way back to you,
I'm taking in all that you do,
I love you because I want to,
It's a willing road back to you.
You made every inch of me new,
I'm breathing the air that you do,
Oh I'm finding my way to you.

To you...yeah

I'm finding my way back to you,
I'm taking in all that you do,
I love you because I want to,
It's a willing road back to you.
You made every inch of me new,
I'm breathing the air that you do,
Oh I'm finding my way to you.

I'm finding my way to you.
