

The Ruins

Jonathan Thulin

I am the one who builds my home
Stone by stone on the shore
I always thought my house would stand
But every wave swept it all away

I'm found, I'm found by you

When I'm buried in the rubble
And all I've built has crumbled
Can you see me in the shadows
When all that I have left fades away
I find you in the ruins that remain

I am the one who ran away
Far from home into the unknown
But you turned and came right after me
You found the trails of my betrayal

Oh to build this house upon thy rock
And it will never fall, it will never fall