

What You're Looking For

Jonny Lang

You always see only see what you wanna see
Always walking in your own reality
Are you awake or are you living inside a dream?

Making movies in the back of your mind
Frame by Frame, line by line
You're changin' and re-arrangin' it all the time
But it always ends the same and you don't know why

If your looking for love
You're gonna find it
If your looking for faith
You're gonna find it
If your looking for hope
You're gonna find it
You're gonna finally find what you're looking for

If you looking for fear
You're gonna find it
If your looking for trouble
You're gonna find it
If you're looking for love
Your finally gonna find what you're looking for

Two people could be walking in the same shoes
And at the same time hear the same news
One's laughing and the other one's crying
One is living and the other one's dying

So tell me now which ones is you
Cause in the end it's up to you
Cause the fact is that's there's only one truth
And the only difference is a point of view

And when you finally find it, there'll be no denying
That you were holding it the whole time
Tomorrow's too late, you just can't wait
To change your mind

You're gonna find it, You're gonna find it
You're gonna find it, You're gonna find it
You're gonna finally find what your looking for

You're gonna find it, You're gonna find it
You're gonna find it, You're gonna find it
You're gonna finally find what your looking for