Porcupine

Joseph Arthur

A porcupine crawling out from inside of your mind Like you're growing a crown of thorns But you're no Messiah You think more like a spider 'cause guilty hearts beat upside down

Silver hubcaps replaced your eyes
As you went spinning on a daydream down
Forgiving the road every inch for miles
If your tyres survive you know your heart will explode

And if this song was a sponge soaked in your blood Well then I guess the story would be told A fateful day
You became a spider as I fed you blood from my nose

Now you're just like me Now I'm just like you
