

Not Mine

Joseph

Who will stay? Who will stay?
Who will stay?

All of my days - who will stay, who will stay?
All of my days - who will stay?
Each passing face - who will stay, who will stay?
All of my days - who will stay?

Janey, I cannot lay my head to rest while I'm changing.
It doesn't mean you're second best.
I'm learning that I am not my own,
So I won't call you home.
So I won't call you home.

You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.

Shifting shadows fall. Some they take, some remain.
I remember how it felt, now moving on...
Will those hands and those words find that calm and steady pace
Enough to not let it slip away?
Enough to not let it slip away?

Janey, I cannot lay my head to rest while I'm changing.
It doesn't mean you're second best.
I'm learning that I am not my own,
So I won't call you home.
So I won't call you home.

You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.
You're not mine, you're not mine, you're not mine.