

Open Hands

Josh Groban

You got here right on time
I wasn't looking when you walked into my life
It's hard to surrender when you're holding on so tight
When you're scared of letting go

They say to love someone is to set them free
It always brings us back to where we're meant to be
So make my heart your home
I promise this with all I am

I will hold you
And I will love you with open hands

It's how you breathe me back to life
It's in the way that I feel safe here in your eyes
And how each little moment is a beautiful surprise
You're the song inside of me

They say to love someone is to set them free
It always brings us back to where we're meant to be
So make my heart your home
I promise this with all I am

I will hold you
And I will love you with open hands

Now my heart's an open door
And I'm not running anymore
'Cause when you know you really know it's true
And it's you

'Cause when I found your love
Oh, it set me free
When I'm in your arms
It's where I'm meant to be

To really love someone is to set them free
I promise I'll see you and I know you see me
And when life tries to break us
In ways we may not understand
I will hold you
You will hold me
And we will love
With open hands, with open hands
