

Everday

Josh Joplin Group

And it starts like this we crave to be kissed
By a moment complete in it's happiness
Far away from the things that we wish to escape
That lead us to think that we are not awake
We are ourselves despite ourselves
This place gets smaller as the universe swells

We come to terms eventually

I am not the only cowboy in this one horse metaphor
I am not the only lifeguard who's washed up on the shore