

You're My Colour

Josh Pyke

So tell me who am I?
Cause you're my colour, you're my colour
I can see you in the sky
And it's your colour, it's your colour
You should wear it all the time
And when I'm sleeping, when I'm sleeping
You keep opening my eyes
Cause you're my colour, you're my colour

Did you know, that every colour is a combination of
A million beams of light just shining from above
And we're all particles of dust and dying stars
But you're my colour, you're my colour

So run the river, go
Cause you're my colour, you're my colour
You're my mystery unsolved
And I can see you, I can see you
You are standing on the coast
You're jumping breakers, I will hold you
Til it's time to let you go
But even then though, even then though
Would you know

And there is a stillness in you that I long for
And I'll miss the weight of you
There is a frenzy and fire you will long for While I'll miss the weight of you
Oh, I'll miss the weight of you

So when can I come home?
Cause you don't even look over
Your little shoulder when I go
And you're my colour, you're my colour
You are everything I know
And I can see you going crazy
You are dancing on your own

And oh, I love you
You're so beautiful you know

Did you know, that every colour is a combination of
A million beams of light just shining from above
And I will love you from a distance, from afar
Although the phantom pain the further that you are
So surely we are more than dust and dying stars
With all these chemical reactions in my heart
Cause you're my colour, you're my colour
