

Coyote Caller

Joshua James

Mile marker 35 I saw, John can ya hear him howlin?
It must get lonely when the night sky falls
The coyote calling, I'd sing if my voice could:

Follow his high notes, down to the bass where the low end goes
Hungry to hide the killer inside, when the Coyote calls me home

We wandered aimless till the sun came up
Bring out your trumpets, children
Dance off the daylight till the moon wakes up
When the king of the prairie screams a dirge to awake we:

Follow his high notes, down to the bass where the low end goes
Hungry to hide the killer inside, when the Coyote calls me home

We caught him bathing, licking at his wounds
A face no reaction, just silence
Without a warning he began a tune, singing:
Sha-na-na-nana, Sha-sha sha-na-na Na, Sha-na-na-nana
AWHOO A WHOOU
Sha-na-na-nana, Sha-sha sha-na-na Na, Sha-na-na-nana
AWHOO

We just follow the high notes, down to the bass where the low end goes
Hungry to hide the killer inside, when the Coyote's calling me home
Sha-na-na-nana, Sha-sha sha-na-na Na, Sha-na-na-nana
AWHOO A WHOOU
Sha-na-na-nana, Sha-sha sha-na-na Na, Sha-na-na-nana
AWHOO A WHOHOO
Sha-na-na-nana, Sha-sha sha-na-na Na Na, Sha-na-na-nana
Awhoo awhoo awhooo
