

Old Friend

Joshua Radin

Well we grew up together, as friends, we weathered the storms,
that blew cross the planes From Ohio to Texas, everyone who met us helped,
keep us dry from the rain,

But where's my old friend now?
Oh, where's my old friend now?
In the blink of an eye,
you've gone from my side,
without saying good bye,
Oh where's, my old friend now?

Over my shoulders
as the winter blew colder,
I saw you there,
You were standing behind me,
better remind me,
that someone still cares,

But where's my old friend now?
Oh, where's my old friend now?
In the blink of an eye,
you have gone from my side,
without saying good bye,
Oh where's, my old friend now?

And I know you can hear me, though you're so far away,
And I wish you could steer me back,
I'm off my tracks,
And know that I need ya,
I'm open to see ya,
come ridin' back into town
I can't do this myself, and I'm needing your help, I'm swimming, but soon I will drown,

So where's my old friend now?
Oh where's my old friend now?
In the blink of an eye,
you have gone from my side,
without saying good bye,
Oh where's, my old friend now?
