

Ribbons Of Glass

Joshua Tillman

ribbons of glass
hang along the mountain pass no one that young should feel the way a spring bird does white sheets bed down before our rakes touch the ground we can't rest, we don't lie in the gaze of hindsight