Joy Again

(You're out of place)

It changed his mindset
Just swam inside for way too long
He'll never find it
What he just lost, a mind is gone

The river's pretty deep
They told us just to keep
Our heads held up so
We don't sink down too low
Beneath the coldest floor
The ice shelter and the oldest door
Though harmony forbade
Keepin' me in the shade

He didn't wanna be
What all the others said he was
Annoying company
A problematic part of peace

The love inside was dead
No good thoughts in my head
The ugliness escapes
Vampires without capes
A dream of warm soft sheets
But nights without sleep
Please just try to be nice
To me tonight

([?] Will DiSerafino)

Covered in blankets
Lying in the basement
The walls all soaked in
Thoughts were just hiding now

A lonely holiday
Gold clouds were always grey
Pretty people were ugly
But still a part of me
What do you want from this
Silly apology?
This unfair exchange
Just take it all away
