

Blame

Joy Oladokun

In LA you told me
You're finished with me
So now I gotta get out find a new city
I didn't always do the best I could Even when I promised that I would

I know nostalgia
Is too forgiving
So I changed my number
You can't call and say you miss me
I don't wanna be the reason why
You can't find someone to treat you right

You say I put you through hell
Well, we've all been through heartache and pain
I know, no I'm not perfect but neither are you
I'm not only one to shoulder the blame
I'm not the only one
Who's ever let good thing go to waste
I'm not the only one
Who's trying to do the best that I can
Yeah I know, no I'm not perfect but neither are you
I'm not the only one to shoulder the blame

I get high on sundays
But I count my blessings
I know I can be a selfish reckless and passive aggressive
But I don't really see a reason why
I can't find someone to treat me right

You say I put you through hell
Well, we've all been through heartache and pain
I know, no I'm not perfect but neither are you
I'm not only one to shoulder the blame
I'm not the only one
Who's ever let good thing go to waste
I'm not the only one
Who's trying to do the best that I can
Yeah I know, no I'm not perfect but neither are you
I'm not the only one to shoulder the blame

One
I'm not the only, I'm not the only one
One
I'm not the only, I'm not the only one
One
I'm not the only, I'm not the only one
One
I'm not the only, I'm not the only one

I'm not the only one
Who's ever gonna let a good thing go to waste
Yeah, I know, no I'm not perfect but neither are you
I'm not the only one to shoulder then blame
