

lost

Joy Oladokun

It's 3 a.m.
We're in New York City
So drunk and pretty
Tell me how long has it been?
Since we did our damage
And we broke our plans
And we took our chance on something different

Maybe I'm just sensitive and you're doing fine
And maybe I'm just questioning the look in your eyes, oh

Are you lost, lost in the lonely night?
Are you dancing in the dark, looking out for the light?
Not really sure if starting over's gonna make it right
Are you lost, like I'm lost?

I wish we could pretend
That we're not who we've been
So we could start again as something different

And maybe I'm just sensitive and you're doing fine
And maybe I'm just questioning the look in your eyes, oh

Are you lost, lost in the lonely night?
Are you dancing in the dark, looking out for the light?
Not really sure if starting over's gonna make it right
Are you lost, like I'm lost?

Are you lost out in the night (Are you lost and are you lonely?
)
With one question on your mind?
What if what we've gone to find (Are you lost and are you lonely?)
Is in what we left behind?

Are you lost, lost in the lonely night?
Are you dancing in the dark, looking out for the light?
Not really sure if starting over's gonna make it right
Are you lost, are you lost?

Are you lost, lost in the lonely night?
Are you dancing in the dark, looking out for the light?
Not really sure if starting over's gonna make it right
Are you lost, like I'm lost?