

Somehow

Joy Oladokun

There's this place in my hometown
Silent secret sacred ground
Where I used to run away
Where I learned to smoke and pray
It felt magic being there
In the lonely desert air
Had hard times being a kid
But somehow even back then

I knew what goes up comes down
And if you stick around
Life can change with the weather
Oh, somehow things just get better
Somehow
Somehow

Do you ever feel inside
Like nothing you do can go right?
Well I've heard that voice in my head
And sometimes it can get the best of me
When my demons go unchecked
Everything feels like a mess
I find a quiet place in my chest
And I breathe in

I know what goes up comes down
And if you stick around
Life can change with the weather
Oh, somehow things just get better
I know how bad it can feel
Oh, spinning on a wheel
Life can change with the weather
Oh, somehow things just get better
Somehow
Somehow

When you're losing your mind
'Cause your friends don't care
And you're out of breath, you've been running uphill
No one carried you there
I know that things can get ugly
Fucked up and unfair
I know that there are brighter days out there

I know what goes up comes down
And if you stick around
Life can change with the weather
Oh, somehow things just get better
I know how bad it can feel
Oh, spinning on a wheel
Life can change with the weather
Oh, somehow things just get better

Somehow
I know that things can get ugly
Fucked up and unfair
Oh, somehow things just get better