

Thick Skin

Joydrop

You love, you trust, you're good, you'll do what you're told
You want to and you will, I know you well
But you fight it, it wears you down, it's bigger than you
It's bad for the soul but it's so good for the moment
But I think I can keep it together
Yeah I think I can weather it all
'Cause the sky never falls
And the world never ends
And for all the things that I can't control
I have thick skin

It smashes, it crashes, it treads so lightly
Gets in your head, you shut your eyes and ears so tight, see
There's no coincidence, it's all in your mind
There are no accidents, it's all by design

You may be strong, you may be brave
You may be lost and you may be saved
You may not know and you might think you know
But everywhere you go it will follow

You love, you trust, you're good, you'll do what you're told