

Snow Be A Comin'

JP Cooper

I said the snow be comin' in the morning.
The chill in the air is just a warning.
If the snow don't come then the rain sure will,
The weather may be bitter,
But my heart is still.

But I know in my heart I found my happiness.
And I know, where ever I go,
I found some kind of goodness,
to keep me warm.

I said the snow be a comin' in the morning,
The chill in he air is just a warning.
If the rain don't come then the rain sure will,
The weather may be bitter,
But my heart is still.

And this darkness ain't taking my happineess.
For I know where ever I go,
I found some kind of goodness,
to keep me warm.

So if I'm feeling cold,
I just pull up my collar.

I know I'm heading home,
So there's no need to worry.

And I ain't feeling down,
'Cuz a smile keeps me warmer than a frown.

Said the snow be comin' in the morning,
The chill in the air is just a warning.
If the snow don't come then the rain sure will,
The weather may be bitter,
But my heart is still.
