I've been calling different cities home
Looking for the parts of me didn't get to know
And I know myself a little more the more I let you go
I've been calling different cities home
But only on the days my hands are cold
'Cause I fell for you that morning in the snow
And here in California you're not on my mind much more
Only on the days my hands are cold

You like to tell me I changed
Like anybody really stays the same
You like to tell me I changed
Like anybody really stays the same

You know me better than I wish you did
You're a bigger part of me than I admit
And I hate that my whole family's got to ask me how you've been
You know me better than I wish you did

You like to tell me I changed
Like anybody really stays the same
You like to tell me I changed
Like anybody really stays the same

Now that you're just somethin' to explain
Why accepting love is hard for me some days
Yeah, I still got some habits that she's helping me to break
Now that you're just somethin' to explain

You like to tell me I changed
Like anybody really stays the same
You like to tell me I changed
Like anybody really stays
Like anybody really stays
Like anybody really stays the same
