

Sweet Danger

Judy Garland

There is danger in my loving you
Danger in your letting me,
Danger in your not instantly
Abandoning and forgetting me

Sweet danger, sweet danger
One we know we can share
Unbounded beauty, if we dare

We were destined for divided paths
Fated to be far apart
And there's danger in defying fate
With two foolish hearts

Sweet danger, sweet danger
And although we can share,
Come open with your kiss
Our joy to secretness
And though there's danger waiting there,
We'll be in love and we won't care