

End Of A Friendship

Julia Jacklin

The night started out well
She was having fun far as I could tell
I paid for the meal then went up to bed
Lay there wondering what's happening in her head
I put it all down to the heat and wine
We don't have to agree all of the time
Remember she wants to be by your side
Be by your side

All my love is spinning 'round the room
If only it would land on something soon

Woke up to hear her say
That she couldn't stand it, that she couldn't stay
Out here on the road, it didn't feel right
She listed the things about me she didn't like
I sat there in silence, accepted our fate
We always found it hard to relate
To what we both want and what we both need
And who we both want to be

All my love is spinning 'round the room
If only it would land, plant and bloom

All my love is spinning 'round the room
If only it would land on something soon
But all my words are caught up in a cloud
You know someday you'll have to say them out loud
