

All Your Exes

Julia Michaels

I know where you've been, what you've done, who you loved is a part of who you are

But that maturity ship sails when I hold you in my arms
There's a spot on your chest just for me, it's personally addressed
And anyone there before me should be a criminal offence

When your friends tell stories about 2017
I know there's parts that they leave out to be considerate of me
Wish I could be blissfully unaware of where you used to put your mouth
And who you write your fucking songs about

I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead
I want to kill all the memories that you save in your head
Be the only girl that's ever been in your bed
I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead

I want to live in a world where there's no exes at all
Like you were waiting for me to be the first thing you fall for
The only girl that's ever been in your bed
I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead

Please don't tell me if I accidentally stumble
Into something that reminds you of her
No, I don't need your previous logistics
Where you spent your last Christmas
Spare your past life specifics, oh

And when your friends tell stories about 2023
I hope they hardly can recall there was a you without a me
Wish I could be blissfully unaware of the history in your couch
And who your songs all used to be about

I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead
I want to kill all the memories that you save in your head
Be the only girl that's ever been in your bed
I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead

I want to live in a world where there's no exes at all
Like you were waiting for me to be the first thing you fall for
The only girl that's ever been in your bed
I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead

Don't tell me to make nice, that I should try to empathize
I'm confident I've got them accurately demonized
You tell me not to worry, I'm the only thing you see
Well, yeah, I fucking better be

I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead
I want to kill all the memories that you save in your head
Be the only girl that's ever been in your bed
I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead

I want to live in a world where there's no exes at all
Like you were waiting for me to be the first thing you fall for
The only girl that's ever been in your bed
I want to live in a world where all your exes are dead