

Back to the Water

Julie Doiron

I'm going back to the water
The place where I was born
The place that seems to be
Calling out for me
This water holds me up
It makes me feel like me
This water doesn't judge
Takes me as I am
This water is my home
This water is my home
It's who I really am
I'll build myself a home
Out of landscapes and stones
I don't need a confirmation
I don't need to know the answers
I don't need to be alone
Though I'm not afraid to be
I don't need to know the answers
I don't need to be found
Been given so many chances
There's suffering all around
And I know that there's a lesson
Here for me to learn
I've been here before
I've been here before
I know that there's a lesson
Here for me to learn
I've been here before
I've been here before
And I know that there's a lesson
Here for me to learn
I'm ready to learn
'Cause I've been here before
I've been here before
