June

We're driving home from the city and I made a promise
I promised not to look away
Why did you hit the brake?
A little game we used to play with
But I never look away
Cause falling is worse than hitting the ground

I hope you don't mind I made you stay over that night
We found a station you said you love to make love to We're in too deep but we're young and new
Cause falling is worse than hitting the ground

This was the start of an obsession
And I'm starting to get a little desperate for
I live for always knowing I want more

Lift me up, lift me up cause I'll be coming down
Drag me to the tallest building
The tallest building in town
Cause falling is worse than hitting the ground

We're driving home from the city and you know what I'm thinking
We've become the things we hope and do
Let's take on the night
I wanna make this last a lifetime
I'll never look away from you

Lift me up, lift me up cause I'll be coming down
Drag me to the tallest building
The tallest building in town
Cause falling is worse than hitting the ground

Lift me up, lift me up cause I'll be coming down
Drag me to the tallest building
The tallest building in town
Cause falling is worse than hitting the ground
